

Planning a story

Now you have some believable, three-dimensional characters, you are ready to weave them into a story.

You might have a story ready to write. If not, perhaps their complex characters might help you to plan what will happen to them...

- How might your hero's good qualities lead to action in the story?
- How might their less positive qualities influence the narrative?
- How might your villain help drive the plot?

Planning the story

Name: _____ Date: _____

The characters you have created can help you to write an exciting story.
Use the space below to start planning one out.

So, in the story they could...

So, in the story they could...

So, in the story they could...

My character
is...

My character
is...

So, in the story they could...

So, in the story they could...

So, in the story they could...

